YOU ASKED FOR MORE...WE GOT IT !!

Academic OneFile

You now have access to Thomson Gale's Academic OneFile -- the largest collection of peer-reviewed, full-text periodicals available covering multiple research disciplines. In addition to the nearly 9,000 academic journals, Academic OneFile also includes full-text of major newspapers -- such as the full New York Times to 1995 -- as well as hundreds of podcasts and video from premier publishers. You'll find this database on our e-Resources web page.

Focused on the arts and humanities, the JSTOR Arts & Sciences III Collection contains 150 titles (to add to the JStor titles we had before!)

This addition means more journals in language and literature, as well as important titles in the fields of music, film studies, folklore, performing arts, religion, and the history and study of art and architecture.

More than 14,000 new electronic full-length books have been added to our eBook collection.

NetLibrary eBooks are easy to use; they are accessible from anywhere, and searching them is fast and efficient.

eBooks are listed in the online catalog by title, author, and subject, and can be viewed from any computer on campus. To use the collection off-campus, one must create an account from an on-campus computer, and then log in from anywhere to "check out" the desired book.

MUSIC LIBRARY RENEWED

The Music Library, located in Presser Hall, reopened on November 1, 2006.

The library now houses a separate listening room, with CDs and a plasma viewing screen.

The Music Library currently holds 635 CD titles, primarily of art music, though you will also find musical theater and world music. The main area of the library contains a modern listening station, with plenty of space for viewing scores and taking notes.

All materials in the Music Library except reference materials may be checked out : books about music, scores, CDs and cassettes. The hours of the Music Library are posted at the library's website.

Come visit the renovated, updated, and comfortable new Music Library!
