Mr. John Nevin Sayre, the president of the well-known magazine, The World Tomorrow, addressed the Hollins audience on Wednesday, November 6th, at convocation. Mr. Sayre came to Hollins at the invitation of the Y. W. C. A.

In the afternoon he conducted an informal discussion on the subject of Russia.

"Maurice Hindus, who spoke here last year, probably knows more about Russia than any one else in this country," was the opening statement of Mr. Sayre's speech.

The speaker was in Russia this summer, for the first time since 1913, and he described himself as being deeply interested in the contrast between Russia under the czars and Russia under the Bolsheviks. "I was impressed with the absence of the luxury of 1913 in the hotels and cafes and the much more moral tone of life under the new regime. The workingman's hammer and the farmer's sickle have replaced the imperialistic eagles as symbols of the government."

Mr. Sayre explained that he was primarily interested in the problem of Russia and the peace of the world. "I was tremendously impressed and, in a way, shocked, as it seemed to me and to Sherwood Eddy and others that the stage is apparently being set for terrorist methods are used to crush dissent. There has been a growing fear that the outside capitalistic world is getting ready to attack them. They believe Great Britain, Poland and maybe the United States are interested in having a chance to come in and take over their industries or start a counter revolution to overthrow the communist regime and support a dictatorship."

Second, defensive militarism grows out of this fear of attack. In the last five years the government has organized 2,000,000 boys and girls into the Young Pioneers to counteract our Boy Scouts." He pointed out the five-year system of industrial and agricultural development "which is also a preparation for war. In this project money is no object," he said. "Speed is the whole thing. If Russia continues she will build up one of the biggest military organizations in the world. Militarism is the same the world over—it may be defensive, but the government may put it over."

"The third point is the conflict between the peasants and government. The government wants to mechanize agriculture and the peasants have to conform. Of this situation Maurice Hindus said, 'The real revolution is just beginning, but the government may put it over.'"

"Fourth, the methods of terrorism are being used to crush out dissent. There has been a crusade to wipe out religion because of its opposition to military training. Therefore, terrorist methods are used for enforcement of law."

"I believe it is very important for the United States to get over her childish attitude, and to realize that Russia is one of the greatest (CONTINUED ON PAGE THREE, COLUMN THREE)
Graduates who have arrived at a stage of their intellectual career, make evident to us the value of a knowledge of the world. The study of history and geography is...
CHRISTINE TURNER and Sarah Broadwater represented the Baptist Girls of Hollins at the State Convocation of Baptist Young People, which met last week at Radford, Virginia.

Rosa Freeman returned last Saturday from her honeymoon. The new Mrs. O. H. Freeman were the guests of Margaret Sockwell.

Leah Jones spent last week-end at her home in New Bern, North Carolina.

Elizabeth Simmons visited relatives in Washington last week.

Beverley Quillan drove to Radford a few days ago.

Eleanor Burwell spent a few days with friends in Washington recently.

Among those who accompanied Helen Yoder to her home in Lynchburg last week were Alfreda De Vaught, Ted Tidwell, Frances Tabb, Sidney Adams and Dorothy Duffon.

Betty Franklin motored with friends to her home in Point Pleasant, West Virginia, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Fields, of Baltimore, motored through Radford last week.

Mrs. M. O. Wiles, of Huntington, West Virginia, spent a few days with Gertrude.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brown, of Great Neck, Long Island, drove down to see their daughter, Tim.

Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Redman spent last week-end at their daughter, Nancy Ray.

Harriet Carr had as her guests her mother, Mrs. C. S. Carr, of Norfolk, and her aunt, Mrs. W. A. Fickel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Morgan, of Gaffney, South Carolina, spent last week-end with Betty Franklin.

Mr. Whitfield and Miss Whitfield, of Richmond, spent last Saturday with Claire.

Misses W. W. Chapman, Chesterton, Maryland, spent a few days with her daughter, Teddy.

Mrs. J. B. Bowers visited her daughter, Louise, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mizelle, of Opp, Alabama, spent last week-end with their daughter, Catherine.

Mrs. E. S. Ender, of Baltimore, visited her daughter, Elizabeth, a few days ago.

October 29th was the day of Siddy Wilson last week.

Virginia McClamrock, Mary Shepherd Gray and Virginia Egolf were on campus last week.

Kitty Kemp, a student at Randolph-Macon, spent last Sunday at Hollins.

Mr. F. J. Brown, of Shreveport, was at Hollins recently to see his daughter, Frances.

Rosse Harper has as her guest this week, Frances Espes, of Norfolk.

Anne Fletcher, a student at National Park Seminary, in Washington, D. C., is visiting Phyllis Peacock.

Mildred Thompson and Margaret White are attending the dances at Annapolis this week-end.

Dorothy Towles spent last week-end at her home.

Pattie Good is spending the week-end at her home in Bristol, Virginia.

V. Tony Alderman, of New York, the former Anne Goodale, was a visitor at Hollins last week.

Among those attending the Virginia Polytechnic Institute Homecoming Game Saturday are Margaret Brown, Alyx Lavinder, Elizabeth Morris, Elizabeth Platt and Helen Weaver.

Cleveland P. Greer are spending the week-end in Washington, D. C.