HOLLINS COLLEGE, OCTOBER 3, 1931, HOLLINS, VIRGINIA

NUMBER 1

TINKER DAY ALREADY IN THE ATMOSPHERE

Chilly days, colorful hillsides, falling leaves—enter October. And sometime along in October, enter Mr. Turner in knickers to breakfast or, to be more explicit, enter Tinker Day. There is no holiday on the Hollins calendar which brings a more eager thrill of anticipation. From the first of the month until the fated moment arrives breakfast suddenly emerges from its early morning lethargy and becomes the gayest meal of the day. The whirl of chatter usually more common to lunch drowns out all other noises. Of course, the tables under the dome are on the qui vive to be the first to see Mr. Turner, and then there will be the usual burst of applause. For everyone is looking forward to the day's outing, the climb up old Tinker, the singing on the rock and the stunts after dinner.

There is seldom an afternoon now when those girls on the hockey field or the tennis courts fail to look up at old Tinker and wonder when they will be climbing the mountain. At such a time it is interesting to turn back to its past and see where old Tinker got its name.

One of the most common traditions is that Tinker was named for a group of deserters or skulkers during the Revolution. These men plied their trade as tinkers while hiding on the mountain and thus avoiding military service. Such a tradition would inevitably put something of a stigma on the beautiful name of a beautiful mountain. Evidence has been discovered, however, which seems to prove this tradition entirely unfounded.

In the first place the name Tinker appears as the name of a creek prior to the Revolution. A Tinker hill is recorded before Revolutionary times as well. From this it seems that Tinker Mountain took its name from Tinker Creek, one branch of which follows the base line of the mountain for a long distance around its east, northeast and north sides. The creek itself was probably named for some early settler of the locality. This is true, furthermore, in the opinion of Mr. F. B. Kegley, of Wytheville, Virginia, who has made an extensive study of the records of this region.

According to Mr. Kegley there are two possible theories in regard to the name of Tinker. In the first place, long ago practically every kind of industry was represented along the creek which was at first called Roan Creek. There were, naturally, all sorts of blacksmith and tinker shops on its bank or on the nearby roads. Mr. Kegley feels it might be possible to draw the conclusion that the creek took its name from the trade plied on its borders were it not for one thing.

There was at this same time a family by the name of Tenchers, sometimes written Tinker, associated with William Preston and living in this locality. In the earliest record of the name, February 8, 1763, it is found as Tinker's. This suggests a man's name. Moreover, there was a proneness at this time to use family names for creeks and mountains. Thus we find Carvin's Creek, Peters' Creek, and Mason's Creek. There is a possibility that the name was given in memory of some exploit of

Names of Honor Students Announced by the Dean

In Convocation, on September 23d, Miss Williamson announced the names of the Honor Students for the session. In doing this Miss Williamson followed the tradition of always devoting the first Convocation to the reading of these names.

The Honor Students at Hollins are those who have averaged 2.3 merit points for every hour of work taken the previous year. In addition to this, they must be good citizens of the College community.

The Honor Students are as follows:

SENIOR CLASS—Jeannette Bauer, Beverly Chalker, Katherine Dilworth, Mary Elizabeth Fooshé, Mary Alice McConnel, Frances Mears, Elizabeth Rice and Janet Stirling.

JUNIOR CLASS—Elizabeth Coleman, Rowena Doolan, Elizabeth Durkee, Elsbeth Ellis, Helen Louise Garber, Kate Holland, Lelia Hornor, Rosamond Larmour, Katharine Locke, Margaret Weed and Elizabeth Young.

The Fall Calendar for Session is Announced

The Administration announces the following calendar for the session. It is the custom each year to present to the students and faculty, various student organizations at Convocation each Wednesday night, while throughout the year other events are scheduled for the Little Theatre.

October 4th—Kirby Page. Series of Addresses. Auspices of Y. W. C. A.

October 7th—Dramatic Association.

October 14th—Athletic Association.

October 21st—Report on International Student Service Convention.

October 28th—Freya.

November 2d—English Singers.

November 4th—Student Life.

November 11th—Report on Junior Month.

November 16th—Jitney Players. Auspices of Alumnae Association.

November 21st—Student Play.

November 25th—Edgar C. Raine. Lecture on Alaska.

January 11th—New York String Quartette.

February 7th-9th—Doctor W. A. Lucart. Auspices of Y. W. C. A.

February . . . —Roy Chapman Andrews.

February 22d—Founder's Day. Address by Marion E. Park, President of Bryn Mawr College.

March 2d—Florence Jackson. Vocation for Women.

Judging by the calendar the Hollins community is assured of interesting and varied programs throughout the semester.

one of the Tinkers or Tenchers who was in Preston's Company of Rangers in 1757 and 1758, or that of another who served in the militia of the Bedford regiment. Be that as it may, there is a tradition back of Tinker of which Hollins may be proud.

HOLLINS OPENS FOR EIGHTY-NINTH SESSION

At eight o'clock, on September 18th, the formal opening of Hollins College took place in the Little Theatre. The solemnity of the occasion was enhanced by the academic procession, led by Miss Matty L. Coker and Doctor E. H. Kirk, of Baltimore, Maryland.

Doctor George Braxton Taylor, the chaplain, opened the exercises with an invocation. Following this, Mr. M. Estes Coker welcomed the new students and announced the changes in the faculty for the coming session. Miss Coker then introduced Doctor Kirk, the speaker of the evening.

Doctor Kirk, D. D., LL. D., received his education at Southwestern College, Memphis, Tennessee. He is now the pastor of the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church, in Baltimore, and a member of the faculty at Goucher College. He is well known, both as a speaker and a writer.

Doctor Kirk's speech was centered around the need for a new potential of energy. He interpreted the present depression as the fruit of wrong thinking and the fear of war. To combat this state new energy is needed. The greatest danger facing the world to-day is war, for war is in the air. The mind of Europe, the mind that knows fully the horrors of war, the mind that understands the unspeakable effect of war, not only upon human lives, but upon the life of the world, that mind is dwelling on the fear of another war. The United States can no longer remain aloof; it is time to take definite steps to change the idea of war. This is the time for a new potential of energy which, according to Doctor Kirk, is embodied in public opinion. Since people live largely by conventions, it is the work of the people of to-day, and especially the women, to make war unconventional. "For a woman," said Doctor Kirk, "has the advantage over men in not having common sense." Because of this fundamental difference, combined with the unwillingness to accept complacently that which she believes is impossible of execution, the educated woman has demanded for herself and her ideas a prominent place in the world. It is, consequently, to her that the older generation looks to-day for help. For in the vision, in the ardent belief, the unshakable determination of young women lies the hope for a world at peace.

This stirring appeal brought to the entire student body the boundaries of the College campus. In the seclusion of life at Hollins there is a tendency to forget the problems and causes with which the world is concerned. After all, beside being citizens of the College community and citizens of the United States, we are citizens of the world.

ELECTIONS HELD BY THE JUNIORS AND SOPHOMORES

At class meetings called last week, elections were held to fill vacancies in the offices of president. Anne McCarley was chosen President of the Junior Class. Betty Brede was elected by the Sophomores.

TO THIS YEAR

As the session of 1931-1932 opens, STUDENT LIFE wishes to extend a welcome to the Hollins girls, both old and new. Those who have been here before realize what lies before them. Work and play, difficulties that seem unsurmountable and pleasures that will recompense—this is your year. But whatever it brings in external things, it is essentially what each individual makes it. This is true for old and new alike. So let it become a rich, inspiring, creative year.

To be such, something must be given as well as gained by every student. Each girl here has the potentiality for contributing something to the intellectual and social life of the College. There is always some gift, however small, that lies within the bounds of a personality. Discover what that gift is—Hollins wants it and needs it—and in return Hollins will offer you treasures that will more than repay your effort. Appreciation of things that were seemingly non-existent; friendships that will bring happiness; inspiration that is infinite; stimulation that is invaluable—these are only a few of the things that may be yours if you will.

But, perhaps, the most intangible gift of all is one that comes from the cumulative efforts of generations of Hollins girls. It is an indefinable sense of beauty and love, and loyalty; it is the realization of a fitness that has become traditional. This is our heritage; a heritage to be recognized and to be guarded. As it is the most intangible, so is it the most perfect gift that Hollins offers to you. Be worthy of this priceless thing; it is yours if you will have it.

Returning Students Note Improvements on Campus

A new school year is now fully in swing and with the new term have come many changes in the Hollins campus and life. One change most visible on the campus is the new entrance which evokes the comment of all who pass. Then, too, there is the change in the decorations of the drawing room. The figured curtains and chair covers give it an entirely new aspect. Under the redecoration scheme comes the repapering of some of the rooms in West. One of the most wonderful improvements of all is the screening of all dormitories. Another pleasant surprise was the water cooler on the porch of the dining room.

There have been other changes in Hollins life not visible to the eye, but they are none

Ten New Members are Added to the Faculty

The new members of the Hollins faculty and the changes in rank of the old members for the session 1931-32 were announced by Professor Estes Cooke, Dean of Instruction, at the formal opening of College, Friday night, September 18th. The new members are:

Frieda Baird, Associate Professor of Economics, Acting Head of Department; Ph. D., Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics.

Elizabeth J. Cook, Laboratory Assistant in Chemistry; A. B., Mount Holyoke.
Margaret Glasgow, Instructor in French; A. B., Hollins College; M. A., University of South Carolina.

Anne Louise Erwin, Instructor in Physical Education; A. B., North Carolina College for Women; M. A., Columbia University.

N. R. Green, Instructor in Psychology; M. A., University of Pennsylvania.

Dorothy Edna Havens, Instructor in Economics and Sociology; A. B., Hood College; M. A., University of Virginia.

Mabel Martin, Instructor in English; A. B., Wells College; M. A., Columbia; B. Litt., Oxford.

Mary Wood Whitehurst, Assistant Professor in Public School Music and Harmony; B. M., Hollins College; M. A., Columbia University.

Elizabeth Zimmerman, Instructor in Zoology; M. A., Brown University.

Mrs. Elizabeth Poulton, Assistant in Social Office.

Changes in rank are:
Grace Chevrax, Acting Director of Physical Education.

Laura E. Gustafson, from Assistant to Associate Professor of Latin.

John M. McGinnis, from Associate Professor to Professor of Psychology.

Letha Ann Smith, from Instructor to Assistant Professor of Physics.

Grace M. Sproull, from Assistant to Associate Professor of French, Acting Head of Department this year since Miss Wilson is on leave of absence.

the less appreciated. First in the improvements comes the unexpected abolition of the call-down book. Equally as startling is the Athletic Board's abolition of compulsory training. And the system of change has even infected Tinker Tea House, for it is now under a new management and plan.

All of these changes were made with the wish of bettering Hollins campus and Hollins life and they are duly appreciated by both new and old students.

Student Government Group Leaders Meet

According to a precedent established last fall, the Student Government Group Leaders met at Hollins on September 15th to prepare for their opening duties. On Saturday evening the group of twenty-one met informally with the administration in the drawing room, where Leonora Alexander gave an interesting account of the conference of Student Government Leaders held at Mount Holyoke in August.

On Sunday morning a business meeting was scheduled, at which time campus problems were discussed. At this meeting it was decided to cut the budget.

Miss Williamson gave an inspiring talk on keeping the spirit as well as the letter of the law. The meeting was continued at three with the object of studying the handbook to insure a universal interpretation and a thorough understanding of the contents. At sunset, a delicious picnic supper was served in the Forest of Arden, after which Hollins songs were sung.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Holds Convocation

On Wednesday, September 30th, the Hollins Young Women's Christian Association had charge of Convocation. Betsy Rice, the president of the organization, presided. She introduced the cabinet for 1931-1932 as follows:

Vice President, Mary Creech; Secretary, Helen Stevenson; Treasurer, Alfreda DeVaughn; Chairman of Devotional Services, Rosamond Larmour; Chairman of International Relations, Elizabeth Dawson; Chairman of Social Service, Rowena Doolan; Chairman of Industrial Commission, Betty Robinson; Chairman of Social Activities, Margaret Smith.

The president, after reading the Y. W. C. A. pledge, urged each girl to think of this as she filled out her membership card by which she declared her intention of becoming an active member of the Association.

Miss Rice stated the double purpose of the Young Women's Christian Association as having first an immediate purpose in uniting the body of Y. W. C. A.'s throughout the United States; establishing, developing and unifying such Associations; participating in the work of the world Y. W. C. A.; and advancing the physical, moral, social, spiritual and intellectual interests of young women. The ultimate purpose of the organization is to further the fullness of life, develop the characters of the girls and to bring the kingdom of God home to each one. The purpose is essentially the concern of the individual and thus the speaker appealed to the student body to cooperate with the cabinet in order that together they might bring about a full and creative life.

Miss Rice proceeded to outline the work of the committees in brief before introducing Miss Charles, who spoke on the world Student Christian Association. Miss Charles sketched the danger in the growing spirit of nationalism among students of foreign countries and the great opportunity America holds with the largest membership of any country in the Federation to quell this uprising. The Hollins Y. W. C. A. group belongs to the International Federation and each girl in the College may help in the international interests by furthering the cause individually.

Miss Rice then announced Miss Sidler who talked about the first speaker which the Y. W. C. A. brings to the campus this year. He is the Reverend Mr. Kirby Page, who will be at the College from October 3d until October 6th. Mr. Page is a graduate of Drake University and the Union Theological Seminary in New York City. He is intensely interested in the World Peace Movement and has attended numerous conferences dealing with the subject as well as having traveled all over the world to interview rulers concerning peace and international relations. Reverend Mr. Page will speak at 12 o'clock noon, Sunday, at 7:30 Sunday night, at 11 o'clock Monday morning, at 7:30 Monday night, at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and Tuesday night at 7:30 P. M. All classes meeting at these hours will be excused for the lectures. Miss Sidler assured her audience of the great treat in store for them in the coming series of talks by the noted speaker.

Convocation was closed by the concerted singing of the Y. W. song, "Follow the Gleam."

N. S. F. A. Committee Makes Plans for the Year

Jane Folk, Chairman of the N. S. F. A. Committee, announces many interesting plans for this year. The work will include not only problems of local interest but events of national and international importance. These are problems of which the College as a whole should be aware, and it is hoped that the student body as a whole will take a vital interest in all the discussions which the Committee has planned.

ATHLETICS

IS HOLLINS ATHLETIC?

Freshmen have already been partially convinced (other classmen don't have to be) that Hollins is quite athletically inclined. Statistics show that over half of Hollins girls go out for organized athletics and, of course, many more take advantage of the opportunities Hollins is so proud of affording. The leaders of the various fall sports are especially interested in seeing the Freshmen come out and take an interest. Now is the time to choose the sport which will be a diversion from books the rest of your College career. The fall sports include hockey, tennis, outing, archery and swimming. What variety—yes, variety is the spice of sports, too. Everyone's favorite sport is surely included and, if you have no favorite, the various leaders will help you find it.

The hockey season opened with the demonstration game last week and maybe you, too, noticed the pleased look on the players' faces as they started up and down that lengthy field once more. As far as stickwork and passing were concerned the game was by no means up to par but there was hard playing and much improvement in the latter half. However, considering the atrocious heat and the fact that it was the first game for the players since last fall, they are to be greatly congratulated. The teams were glad to see so many out and such keen interest shown. Class practices officially started this week and Coach Stirling, with the able assistance of Kay Locke and Adria Kellogg, has been seen in frantic demonstrations of stickwork while "penalty corner" is the newest password. After six weeks of practice the class games will be played off and then the three weeks practice for Odd and Even will get under way. (In case the Freshmen don't know it—all the members of the Odd and Even teams sit at a sumptuous banquet table on Thanksgiving Day. It's loads of fun in addition to being quite an honor.)

Under the leadership of Mary Creech, with Mary Fletcher as assistant, the Outing Club opened this week. Outing is the only year-round activity at Hollins and athletic points are given for all Outing Club hikes and tests passed. The Outing Club's cabin, which has been talked about so much, is a dream about to come true as the site is being chosen now and the cabin will, doubtless, be built this spring. As a last minute warning—the new students are reminded to look at the hiking maps before taking a hike. They are posted in each building near the sign-in and sign-out book.

Why is the grass cut up there between the hockey field and golf course? Of course, the archery season has opened, with Katherine Dilworth as leader. Archery this fall is Odd and Even, with only two practices a week instead of three as last year. Any student who has not gone out for athletics or who cannot stand the strain of hockey and the like should try archery for it is easy to learn and extremely good sport. Katherine is giving special instruction to those who have never handled a bow and arrow before.

Adria Kellogg is the head of swimming. Fall swimming is individual and a wide choice of events is being planned to suit everybody's skill. Only ten practices are required, taking no more than two a week. The final meet will be held November 12th, and no one can be entered in more than three events. If you are interested in class swimming in the spring, it is especially urged that you go out for this individual meet.

The athletic situation is promising, if the business situation isn't. Why not have every single person out for organized athletics this fall?

ALUMNAE NOTES

Eleanor Wilson, '30, is Secretary to the Dean at Swarthmore College.

Angie Turner, '30, was married on September 12th, to Mr. Sidney Jeffries. In the wedding party were many Hollins girls including Mary Turner, Margaret Jeffries, Anna Whitman, Fannie Botsford, Vera Wilhelm and Nancy Lee Turner.

Anna Bohannon, '30, was married this summer to Mr. Booker Carter, of Martinsville, Virginia. The couple are now living in Richmond.

Cecelia Scott, '30, will be married on October 10th to Doctor William B. Hester. Elizabeth Morris, Mary Lee Wiltsee, Mary Elizabeth Perry are among the attendants.

The engagement of Elizabeth Trenbath, '31, to Mr. Irving Fitzpatrick, of Montclair, New Jersey, was announced in June.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harrington (Virginia Jones, ex '31) announce the birth of a son.

Virginia McClamrock, '29, has recently been elected president of the Hollins Alumnae Chapter in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Margaret Partlow, ex '31, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Alabama last spring.

Elizabeth Love, '31, is studying at Geneva, Switzerland, this year.

Sue Rutherford, '31, is doing social work in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dorothy Quarles, '30, is working on her Masters Degree at Radcliff.

Helen Kabler, '31, is studying at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York. A scholarship was awarded her for her senior composition presented at Hollins last spring.

Mabel Uzzell, '31, is living at the Parnassus Club while studying at Columbia University.

Mary Belle Deaton, '31, is teaching public school music in Statesville, North Carolina.

Frances Lineberger, '31, after making her debut in Raleigh, North Carolina, early in September, will sail for a year's study in Florence.

Peggy Barker and Jane Underwood, '32, have transferred to Northwestern.

Betty Greenland, ex '33, is now studying at Washington University in St. Louis.

Anabelle Anthony, ex '33, has pledged Chi Omega at Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee.

Elizabeth Thompson, Louise Moore, Anne Wynn Fleming, Peggy Underwood and Harriet Wynne are among the debutantes to be presented in Atlanta this season.

Anne Ingalls, Mary Taylor Withers, Frances Bell and Ruth Wills are at William and Mary College this year.

Sarah Welch, '31, has a position in a chemical laboratory in Charleston, South Carolina.

Kitty Hildreth, '34, is now studying at the University of Virginia. Her sister, Jane, '28, is a technician in the hospital at the University.

Page Stone, '26, will be married in October to Mr. Leonard Muse.

Charlotte Patch, '31, is teaching public school music.

Lela Bowers, '33, is majoring in physical education at William and Mary Extension School in Richmond.

Hollins Girls to Take Part In Horse Show at Salem

A number of Hollins girls will participate in the Horse Show to be given in Salem this afternoon. Annual Y. W. C. A. Party Is Enjoyed by Students

The annual Y. W. C. A. party for the Freshmen was given Saturday night, September 19th, in the gymnasium. The program consisted of twelve dances, for which Locklayer's Orchestra furnished the music, interspersed with stunts put on by the Freshmen. Those in East staged their impressions of On Entering Hollins, while those in West gave a short skit called Radio. The decorations were very effective and added just enough color to relieve the barrenness of the gym. Streamers of brightly colored paper hung from balcony to balcony to create a gay setting. And to top everything off, refreshments were served in Kellar.

The Y. W. C. A. party is one of the most important social activities of the year since it comes at the beginning and is the first real opportunity for the old and new girls to meet and mix with each other. The committee succeeded in making it more enjoyable than usual this year by means of the card dances and organization of the program.

Dr. Gladys L. Palmer is Doing Research Work

Dr. Gladys L. Palmer, former Professor of Sociology at Hollins College, has resigned her position here in order to do important research work sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Palmer's study, which deals with women workers, was the subject of an Associated Press dispatch from Washington on September 11, 1931. Having gathered material from many industrial schools throughout the country, the article stated that the result of the research proved women workers to be seekers of variety of location or occupation. Several striking examples were cited, such as one girl who had held nine jobs in thirteen years, and another who held thirty jobs in all parts of the country during a span of twenty years.

Dr. Palmer's study will doubtless throw some light on the much-discussed problem of women in industry.

Some Student Government Group Leader is to be heartily congratulated. The other day a Freshman answered the 'phone and wouldn't call a girl, because it was quiet hour!

What with the Tea House so dressed up and doggy, and dear old Violet gone from behind the cookies, have you noticed how dressy the clientele is becoming? Hats, gloves and purses are very necessary; in fact, quite indispensable to the well-dressed Tea House goer.

Cries go up from Third Floor, West, "What shall we do? What shall we do?" The only solution that has been found, after much research into the case, is either to procure a table for the Victrola so that Jay and "Wa" can play it in their room, or to present them with some soft needles.

An then there was the Freshman who exclaimed, upon looking into her French grammar, "Oh, do they put Greek in these books, too?" They were phonetic symbols.

The Green Elephant is to be congratulated on the excellent business which they have had in the past week. The Junior Class is fortunate in the splendid management of their shop.

Doesn't it seem ludicrous to see the Class of '32, who still feel (and occasionally act) like Freshmen, bouncing around in an atmosphere of caps and gowns, dignity, candles and approaching A. B. degrees? Well, children will grow up, you know!

The change of the dinner hour back to six o'clock should do much to mitigate the sufferings of all those who have been annoyed by hunger pains.

What a relief to discover that seeing two girls who are almost identical in appearance is not a sign of cock-eyedness but just the proper recognition of family resemblance. Otherwise optical illusion might be a common complaint on campus since so many "old girls" have brought little sisters to Hollins.

Two more have at last reached the goal of any schoolgirl's expectations. Julia Lamar and Sue Wood were pledged last Tuesday to A. D. A. They presented as their requirements for initiation, the stirring old "dramie," The Hour of Reckoning, playing the leading roles of Myrtle Myrdblup and Reginald Harrington Zilch very creditably. Their friends wish them much happiness in their new activity.

A certain Senior reverted to the long-forgotten days of "Senior Deference Week." She explained gently, but firmly, to some errant Freshmen in the Hotel Patrick Henry that the Hollins room was the rendezvous for upper classmen alone.

If Dr. Taylor continues to make mysterious allusions to various chapters in Genesis, Isaiah, or what have you, Hollins will soon be known as a school of Biblical research. . . . And gather ye 'round, all who were not bold and brazen enough to investigate—the third requisite for the boy going off to college is not a—toothbrush, but a sweetheart!
