Regional Conference of W.I.I. Meets at Hollins

Several Eminent Speakers
Discuss Peace Problems

DELEGATES ATTEND

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom held its regional meeting at Hollins October 12th-14th. Saturday afternoon's colleges and many parts of the south were present. Of all the sessions, with the exception of the one Friday night, was held only among the men.

The Conference opened with a banquet at the Hotel Roanoke on Friday evening, October 13th. Miss patents, National Executive Secretary of the Women's International League, spoke on "The W.I.L. and the Menace of Mutilation." Miss Detter is an outstanding speaker in women's work worldwide and was decorated by the Liberian government, the French Foreign Legion, the United Nations, the League to Save Paris, and the Allied Nations. The reception in her honor was a social event of great significance, held in the Women's National Democratic Club's home. The reception was attended by many prominent women, including members of the association's National Executive Board.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt arrived in Roanoke at 3:30 P.M., Friday October 19th. Thronges of people crowded around and cheered him as he stepped into the car which carried him to the Hotel. Before thousands of people, he dedicated the new Veteran's Hospital and delivered stirring address to give emergency aid to all those of our country who are in need.

Mr. Roosevelt reminded the listeners that the work of relief has just begun and added, "The millions of dollars of our industries. The fostering of plans that inevitably lead to war by those manufacturers who were linked with the arms industry, the manufacturers who were linked with the arms industry, is a matter of great concern. The task, however, except in the name of the President and the vice-president, is to be placed in the hands of those industries. It is Miss Detter's belief that this can be accomplished without any bread-and-butter League.

Following Miss Detter's address, Mr. William T. Stone, of the Foreign Policy Association, disclosed some of the startling facts this investigation uncovered. He showed that the world's economy has been so disturbed by the war that those industries which were not able to keep pace with the demand for arms have found themselves in a state of bankruptcy. He pointed out that the war has given these industries a chance to turn their activities to peaceful pursuits.

The main topic at the meeting Saturday morning in presser Hall was "Planning for the Twenty-Fifth Century." Miss Ellen Brinton outlined the plans of the W.I.L. for spreading peace concepts throughout the nation. Mrs. Barbara, Southern representative of the League, also spoke before the committee, reporting on her experiences while working for the W.I.L. in the United States.

Several students from Hollins signed their names to the petition, which was presented to the President. It was signed at 2:00 P.M., on that afternoon in order to see the President—the first one to ever visit Roanoke.

Dr. Archibald Black
Gives Series of Lectures

Delivers Four Addresses on Religious Topics

PRESENTED BY Y.W.

One of the most interesting series of lectures ever given at Hollins College was presented here Sunday and Monday, when Dr. Archibald Black, pastor of the First Congregational Church, of Montclair, N. J. Dr. Black began his lectures by stating that Jesus in His own time: how the Jews gathered around Him, seeking to convince their own leaders of the truth, and virtue, and wondering if Christ was the One who could do this. An affirmative answer would not have been sufficient to convince their class for "Life's greatest truths," said Dr. Black, "and we must believe in God." He asked them to consider the teachings of the Gospels, and they were held together by their faith in God. After discussing the nature of God and His attributes, Dr. Black pointed out the significance of the teachings of Jesus for our life and work—and not by His word of mouth.

On Sunday evening Dr. Black spoke on "Jesus' Life, His Teachings and the Teacher." He said that Jesus' teachings were founded on the minds of young people. His main questions were: "What does its means to you? For what does He live? For what does He stand? For what does He offer to the world? Is it a different life from others?" Dr. Black used the familiar statement of Jesus' life. He lived a simple, substantial, honest, and simple, life. He had no material riches, nor did the people before him; he was quiet, simple, ordinary, and lovable. Jesus came to cleanse, to lead, to heal, to gather and to lift up. For share with your treasure is, there will be your heart be also.

In the third of his series of lectures, Dr. Black spoke of Jesus' teachings and the aspect of Christianity. He said, "You think it is difficult to follow the teachings of Jesus, because He said, 'Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you.' These are fine and wonderful ideals, but they are not literally applicable to politics or business enterprises. Jesus did not make these statements literally, but we expect Him to speak of His teachings the same way that He spoke of Jesus' teachings to us.

In conclusion, Dr. Black concluded his series of lectures by stating that Jesus was the great spiritual teacher of the world, and that His teachings are still valid today. He closed his address by encouraging the students to follow the teachings of Jesus in their daily lives.

Tragedy," satisfy their hunger, and freedom—other words, they might capitalize on a psychology which avaricious people sometimes exploit in their attempt to control students. Now that the new students, as well as the old, know the secrets of getting around, all we need is a little practice to become war has found unfailingly successful in its scheme of social engineering.

Freshmen to be Guests

The freshmen of '32 have invited all the new students of Hollins and invited them to a reception at the Peabody on Saturday, October 30th. The day is a little bit of a school dance, as '22 Mr. C. A. C. Howard is a West End millionaire who is averse to social events. He is the kind of man who is not only inured to the horrors of war, but also to the horrors of living. Surely, the Pacifists have not been able to convince him that the horrors of war are over.

A HOUSE CLEANING

Every year it seems that there are certain times when the interpretations of the laws of the land seem to be at variance with society's needs. During the actual service, the order is really in order, but during the service itself, it is really in disorder. The men, of course, are not really in order and the women, of course, are not really in disorder.

Freshmen '33, '34, and '35 meet in the Great Hall. Mrs. Jackson's "Welcome" is not to be missed. The freshmen of '32 meet in the east wing of the Student Union. Mrs. Jackson's "Welcome" is not to be missed.

John. Walker, a student at the University of California, spoke on "The Modern State and Its Problems." The speech was well received by the audience, and the discussion that followed was interesting. The discussion centered around the question of whether the state should work for the same end. The speaker declared that the state should work for the same end, and that the state should work for the same end. The speaker declared that the state should work for the same end. The speaker declared that the state should work for the same end.

A Hunting for "Welcome" Speeches, a topic in the Student Union, was held on the evening of October 29th. The speech was well received by the audience, and the discussion that followed was interesting. The discussion centered around the question of whether the state should work for the same end. The speaker declared that the state should work for the same end, and that the state should work for the same end. The speaker declared that the state should work for the same end. Library instruction classes

This year a series of library instruction classes for new students was introduced to the Hollins community. These classes were designed to improve the technological skills of the students. Through such instruction, the Hollins community is able to become more familiar with the facilities of the Hollins library.

A Duty and a Privilege

Friday night the Hollins community will hold a full evening of discussions they will follow through this year. The dominant theme this year is the duty and privilege of students. The question is: who is responsible for the society? Is the faculty responsible? Is the student body responsible? Is the society itself responsible? Or should we, as individuals, be responsible for the society we live in? The Faculty Council does not represent the student body. For this reason, the Council’s responsibility is to the student body.

Paciﬁsts meet in the Student Union. Mrs. Jackson’s “Welcome” is not to be missed. The freshmen of ’32 meet in the east wing of the Student Union. Mrs. Jackson’s “Welcome” is not to be missed.
Athletics

The season for hockey, tennis, swimming, riding and archery has opened! Let’s see that old class spirit in all of you. Come out for at least one sport. Hockey promises an excellent team game with lots of spirit and fun. Riding, archery and tennis will give you thrill of individual competition. Don’t be discouraged if you have never played before. There will be others there who know as little about it as you do. In spite of your present ignorance of the sport, you may end up on the team. The teams need your support! Go out and back them!

The Athletic Board selected Peggy Woodward as its Senior Representative.

Margaret Richardson has been elected new chairman of archery in place of Chan Entjer.

Mildred Denny was appointed Secretary and Treasurer of the Athletic Board to replace Miss Risher, Chairman of the Outing Club.

Of general interest to the school is the fact that the Athletic Board will sponsor several attractions during the year. Among these, there will be supper hikes and hay rides, which will be for the pleasure of the whole school. Announcements will be made later, regarding each event.

... and so on...

Horseback riding has made definite progress this year in spite of being handicapped by Mr. Graves’ illness. Miss Jackson taught for four years at Vassar and one year at Stanford. Several summers ago she was a member of a research group which studied the problem of the sales tax in the United States.南沙,
