President Randolph Explains Administration Changes

Conducts Last Convocation
May 30th

NEW CALENDAR

Dr. Randolph presented in Convocation the changes made by the Administration which will go into effect in 1934-35. She spoke first of changes made in the legislative committee. Because of the feeling among students and members of the faculty that the students should have a wider opportunity to express themselves the membership of the legislative committee has been enlarged by the addition of five ex-officio members—the presidents of the four classes and the editor of Student Life.

They plan also to encourage the expression of campus opinion by open forums, greater use of the student newspaper and additional faculty and student body meetings for discussion.

The student body was then told that the use of radios at all times is still on trial. Dr. Randolph added that radios should not be used after the lights go off.

She requested that Juniors and Seniors be given greater responsibility in their work, but this will be given greater consideration before any action is taken.

The wearing of socks on campus will be given further consideration and action taken in September.

Dr. Randolph spoke of smoking only to caution the student body to smoke in good taste and moderation with special consideration at the "T" House and the approved places in Roanoke.

The announcement that there are to be open breakfast hours for next year was especially well received by the student body. The dining room doors will be open from 7:30 to 8:00 A. M., but all students are requested to be out of the dining room by 8:30.

It was then announced that the school session for 1934-35 will be lengthened in order that faculty and students may have more time to finish up their work. The session will end on June 12th, and longer vacation periods will be given at Christmas and Easter.

President Randolph next declared that the administration is anxious to aid students who need help by scholarships. Accordingly the administration plans to join with the other colleges of the state in a plea to President Roosevelt and Congress for the continuation and increase of financial aid to schools and students. The administration will also recommend to the Board of Trustees the setting up of a technical loan fund for students.

In closing, Dr. Randolph paid a tribute to the student body of this year, expressing her appreciation of their sympathy and cooperation in the work the college is doing.

Dramatic Board Presents Gifts

The outgoing Dramatic Board have presented the Little Theatre with some very desirable equipment. They have bought two baby spotlights and also have started a fund of $100 towards the purchase of a travel curtain for the stage. This curtain will facilitate productions by providing for a greater variety of scenery and less hurried shifting.

The members of the 1933-'34 Dramatic Board included: Evelyn Greever, Florence Shelley, Adria Kellogg, Chan Emry and Betty Shalett.

Alumnæ Institute to be Opened this Summer

The Alumnæ Association has announced the opening of a Summer Institute which will last from August 15th to August 30th. The Institute is for the alumnæ who wish to return to Hollins for renewed learning as well as a vacation. The courses offered include English Literature (Dr. Janney), Modern History (Miss Margaret Scott), Contemporary Trends in Political Philosophy—Liberalism, Communism, Naziism, and Fascism (Dr. Marti), Contemporary Trends in American Philosophy (Miss Williamson), Sociology—Economic and Social Problems of To-day (Dr. Mary P. Smith). Besides this academic program there will be recreational and social activities such as swimming, tennis, golf, riding, dancing, bridge parties, musical entertainments, and informal talks on art. An additional feature of the Institute provides that husbands and children may also attend. Miss Bessie Peyton in collaboration with Lizzoo and Emma have a special program arranged for the children.

This Alumnæ Institute will present an excellent opportunity for the alumnæ not only to gain knowledge, but also to renew former acquaintances and spend a very enjoyable vacation. If the Institute is a success this summer it will be continued in the years to come.

President Randolph Addresses Reynolds Hi Graduating Class

On May 25th President Randolph addressed the graduating class of the Richard J. Reynolds High School, Winston-Salem, N. C. In her speech she particularly stressed the importance for high school Americans to exert every effort in the fight for democracy. President Randolph outlined the problems confronting the youth of to-day as contrasted with former years. In doing so, she traced the events leading from monarchy to democracy, and the recent reversion toward dictatorship. While she attributes the rise of dictators to fear of encroachment by neighboring countries and the danger of war in Europe, she feels the investing of greater powers in the executives of the United States is due to the attempt to fit in with European forms of government. It is the problem of dictatorship, President Randolph stated, which makes it increasingly important for the American high school students to show the spirit of their forefathers toward public, rather than private welfare. Admitting that the struggle for freedom of democracy is no longer a bloody one, President Randolph concluded by advising the graduates never to falter from the everyday grind.

New Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Installed at Convocation

At a candlelight service Wednesday night, May 16th, the new Y. W. C. A. Cabinet for the year 1934-35 was installed. The retiring president, Margaret Smith, made a brief speech about the position of Y. W. on campus, declaring that "It should be an underlying affector of our lives." "This year," she went on to say, "the organization has not meant what it should, for it has been forced to undergo a change in the attitude of the campus. What Y. W. needs next year is your criticism and interest."

So saying, she introduced Ann Bates, the new president for 1934-35. Miss Bates outlined briefly next year's program. It will consist of work in and around the Hollins community—"We must begin at home," Miss Bates stated, "to arouse interest at home." Speaking further, she entreated students to be more interested in Y. W. next year; "for," she concluded, "I know Y. W. will be more interested in you."

Commencement Plans— Full Schedule Announced

"As You Like It" Pleases Audience

"As You Like It," Shakespeare's delightful comedy-romance, was enacted on the green in the Forest of Arden before an audience of guests, students and alumnæ, Saturday night, May 2d.

At eight-thirty the lights were turned up and the show was on. The play was well cast, each part seeming to suit its player. The usurping Duke Frederick was played by Virginia Black. Susanna Turner, as the banished duke looked and acted this part with ability. The part of the charming and witty Rosalind was well characterized by Mildred Reynolds, and Celia was portrayed with vivacity by Mary Anna Nettleton. The handsome Orlando, as acted by Betty Lane, quite thrilled the hearts of the ladies in the audience. Lill Burns portrayed very realistically the part of Oliver, brother to Orlando. Mary Helen Hirsfield, as Touchstone, and Sarah Worsham, as Audrey, produced many hearty laughs from the appreciative audience. Harriet Ann Jackson, with her sarcastic humor, gave added zest to the play by her characterization of the "melancholy Jaques."

Other parts were well enacted by Marion Hamilton as Amiens; Eleanor Trapnell as Jaques Le Bois; Mary Ellen Garber as Adam; Gray Sue Graybill and Polly Pruter as Corin and Silvius; Bill Robinson as Charles, the wrestler; Dorothy Hunt as Le Beau; Mary Lou Weeks as William; Charlotte Ann Emry as Phoebe; Margaret Richardson and Albert Coker as pages, and Lillian Pitts and Mary Morris Watt as lords.

From time to time in the play, music was rendered by Miss Whitehurst, Jean Bird, Charlotte Urner and members of the cast.

McCoy Addresses the A. D. A.'s

The A. D. A.'s held their most important meeting of the year in Keller kitchen on May 22d. After a weighty consultation they elected their new president, Gus McCoy. Miss McCoy, with very little encouragement, stood on the ironing board and addressed the intellectuals around her thus: "Unaccustomed as I am to public speaking, I want to congratulate you on your excellent choice. I am better qualified than anyone for this position, for my brains and cuteness could be surpassed by none, save our former president, Janice Marshall." The A. D. A.'s all took their cue, reverently bowed their heads, and dispersed.

Athletic Association Holds Supper Hike

On Thursday afternoon, May 31st, the Athletic Association sponsored a supper hike to Happy Valley. The hikers left Main building at 5:30 P. M. chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas. Enthusiasm reigned high, especially when the group was sitting around the fire eating pigs in blankets, and exchanging those stories which only the magic of an open fire can inspire. The cast for the play returned early for practice while the others followed later in the moonlight.

ALUMNÆ INSTITUTE

This summer, under the shadow of Tinker Mountain, the Alumnae Institute is offering a chance for old girls to return—with husbands and children in tow. This step widens the field for the alumnae to join in more active participation in Hollins life of to-day. Everyone who comes has the opportunity of attending several lecture courses under the auspices of the Hollins faculty. In this way the alumnae may not only return to their studies, but they may also renew old friendships. And who can think of a more pleasant way to spend a vacation? Combining this idea is a new one at Hollins and if it is successful, it will be continued. Needless to say, we are all in favor of the Alumnae Institute and wish it the best of luck.

STUDENT FORUM

A PARTING WORD

To express the sentiments of an undergraduate, at this time when everyone is saying everything sayable on the subject of graduation, commencement, and tradition, one might say, that the obligations of a college graduate to take her place in the great world seem almost too bold. And yet the classes that are left behind, have just as many emotions struggling within them as the somewhat bewildered Senior who finds herself after four sheltered years, which have been sometimes hard, but yet in retrospect always happy, about to leave and come face to face with an even harder existence. As one of these undergraduates expresses it, our feeling is somewhat akin to self pity. You see, Seniors, we have learned to like you too well—we have depended on you to help solve our problems, we have called on you to "share our joys" and the thought of facing a future sans you is somewhat depressing. To us you represent Hollins. You were here when we came and somehow, foolishly, we expected you to be here always, and now, it is forcibly brought home that in another few days you will have gone.

But enough of sad recollection and self-pity. You would be a very poor class indeed, if you hadn't given us enough of your spirit to "carry on" the high traditions which you have upheld so well. And we don't think you are a "poor class." If anything you have been too good—we are spoiled. Just this as a parting word: We'll miss you, but we will try to be worthy of the torch you have handed down to us and will try to advance it a little nearer the goal. In the words of the song that was sung last year by the Freshman Class, but with a new meaning because your life here has given it such.

*"Your ideals will be our ideals, and we will do our best
To hold them high and, Dear Senior Class, we wish you happiness."*

FIRST AID TO ATHLETICS

A recent editorial in STUDENT LIFE deplored in no uncertain terms the condition of athletics at Hollins. This is all very true and we feel sure that no one will disagree with the opinion that athletics are on the decline. No benefit, however, will be derived from doing a whole lot of talking and no acting. It's all very well for STUDENT LIFE to publish such an editorial, thereby momentarily arousing the interest of the student body, and it's all very well for the members of the Athletic Board to tear their hair and bemoan the loss of interest in athletics at Hollins. Still, the real issue lies with us as individuals. The Athletic Board and STUDENT LIFE can do nothing but ask you to do your part.

Do you want athletics to continue at Hollins next year? If so, each of you should present evidence of your interest and support. If not, let us hear your comments so that we can evaluate the situation more adequately. Definite action, whether or not it is favorable to the continuance of athletics, is advisable. If your action encourages participation, athletics will be restored to their former level of importance. If your action is unfavorable, it will at least shorten that drawn-out period in which the "cat is allowed to die." And remember that the final decision in this trend of athletics will depend largely on your own individual contributions.

CAMPUS CRUMBS

BETSY: "Did it hurt when they pulled your tooth?"

DOTTIE: "No, but they did give me that horrible gas."

BETSY, sympathetically, "Oh, Dottie, I'm so sorry they had to use an anti-septic!"

One of next year's freshmen, after being graciously informed "all about Hollins" by our new Student Government president timidly asked—

"And are you a freshman this year?"

The choir quietly took their places. Suddenly a shrill whisper from a certain member:

"Oh, Ro, you're sitting on your 'All Glory Land and Honor!'"

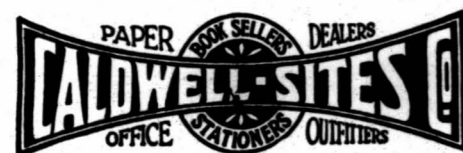

PROFESSOR: "Give me a double negative in Shakespeare."

BRIGHT CHILD: "Tain't not your mind with lust or gold."

Exam theme—with Reifsnider's special permission:

"I'm Sure of Everything But You Baby!"

"Hum," mused Ann Bates as she attempted to serve the iced tea, "this ice isn't all it's cracked up to be."

CORRECTION

In the last STUDENT LIFE it was stated that Marguerite Harwell's paper was the first from Hollins to be presented before the Virginia Academy of Science. We wish to correct this statement which overlooks the two following papers:

Katherine Dilworth, Martha High, Esther Shoup—students from Class of '32, and Miss Harriett H. Fillingier.
