Greetings to the Class of 1941. On behalf of the Student Government Association I want to welcome you to Hollins.

We have been looking forward to your coming and we want you to feel that you already are one of us.

By becoming a member of the Student Body you have to adjust yourself to the standards and the rules of our common life and live by them. These laws, made by the students and faculty members, we feel are necessary for the quality and character of our Hollins life.

The Honor System, a fundamental principle of Student Government, is your guide for upholding these regulations. To live a true Hollins life, I urge you to consider under our code of honor, you will find that you not only have individual responsibility, but social responsibility to your fellow students, as well.

There is so much to gain at Hollins. Student Government with the Honor System opens the way not only for individual development, but also for good citizenship after college. The intellectual opportunities, the friendships, the fun, the right kind of friends have a wealth of intangible values for you. Don't think, however, that you are out of the world. You are sharing in the Hollins' future development in this life. We are looking to you to carry on and make it better. I am placing my faith in your ability, your talent, and your judgement, and to you the Class of 1941 I wish every success.

Campus Undergoes Changes During Summer Months

As is customary during the summer months, many new and improved facilities have been made about Hollins buildings and grounds. This year, however, the work of returning will not find the college as changed as it was last year, the hand of the decorator is apparent nevertheless. Perhaps the most noticeable change is found in Keller. The white furniture with arms and legs, the napery and lamps and fresh decorating have made it a lighter and more attractive place for relaxation. The day students' rooms in West, too, have been done over. This year the large day students' rooms is to be used again for them in the day time, and as a study room for the real day students. The smallest of the two rooms, however, is to be devot ed entirely to the commuting girls and will take care of the things they wish to keep at college.

In the dormitories, the usual painting and repainting has been done with accompanying changes in the electrical fixtures and closet space. East house, the big bathroom on the first floor and a very much rejuvenated Y. W. C. A. room. Its new furniture and draperies have made it a match for the other social rooms which were so artifically remodeled.

Sports lovers will be especially interested in the two tennis courts which have been completed. The pitch-and-putt surface is something new for Hollins and the tennis fans can hardly wait to use them. The football field will be available for students who have already noticed the new plays in Presser, and the Student con cgress is sure to offer it to the Little Theatre.

Nancy Peery Welcomes Freshmen to Hollins

Big Apple” Dance Opens Hollins Social Season

The Y. W. C. A. will open the Hollins social season with an old fashioned barn dance at the gym on Saturday night.

The party is to be held from 9 to 12, and is given each year in honor of the Freshmen. The faculty will be present to regale the dolls from the city with their customs.

The party this year will be a barn dance and everyone is requested to come in appropriate costume. It is also suggested that students practice up on their “Big Apple” steps as the “Big Apple” will be held tonight.

Alumnae Institute Has Successful Season

The third annual Hollins Alumnae Institute was held on campus July 12-13, with a large number of alumnae on hand for the occasion. The program consisted of luncheons, afternoon gatherings and two performances by the Little Theater group of Abingdon, Virginia.

Dr. Gerhard Calve came to the institute to give a talk on the International affairs. He is a member of the Graduate Faculty of Political and Social Science. He represents progressive methods are taught. Both Dr. and Mrs. Bop sf ord were at Hollins for most of the institute’s program.

The subject of modern architecture was discussed by Mr. G. Holmes Perkins of Washington, D.C., who illustrated his lectures with moving pictures taken on a recent trip. He was very favorably impressed with the Hollins campus.

Miss Susie Blair of the Hollins faculty discussed the philosophies and techniques of the three leading American playwrights, Eugene O’Neill, Maxwell Anderson, and Paul Green. In addition to Miss Blair’s lectures, the Barter Theater of Roanoke was to perform Rogers.”

Dr. Albert Coates of the University of North Carolina gave two lectures to the institute. The conference was held in the Little Theater. This group organized by Rev. Frank E. Miller, University of Richmond.”

Schedule of Events For Opening Week

Friday, September 24 Formal opening of college.

Monday evening, September 27 Classes meet according to half hour schedule.

Tuesday afternoon, September 28 Little Theater Picnic.

3:00-5:00 Y. W. C. A. Barn Dance.

Sunday, September 26 Group Leaders Aid in Freshman Orientation

A group of upperclassmen returned to campus several days early to have charge of freshman groups and aid in orientation. Headed by Nancy Smith, assistant professor of English, and Bobbi Roanoke, life was spent Friday and the week-end in helping with campus problems and arranging for the arrival of the fresh new class, Monday morning. Throughout the week the upperclassmen met with the new students to acquaint them with student government regulations and to answer any questions there may be. It is hoped that all new students will find Hollins accepting barter for admission.

Group sessions of this nature will be held throughout the year in an attempt to give the new students a feel for what they wish to Abingdon, Virginia, presented two plays a c companying changes in the electrical fixtures and space. East house expanded so that some places pay them to get through the day. This promotion led by the students.

The Alumnae Institute closed on July 23 with a picnick celebration at Hol lins’ own Little Theater.

Students to Acquaint Themselves With Student Life

The party this year will be held Friday night in the Little Theater. Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, professor of history at the University of Richmond will deliver the address of the evening. His subject will be "The "New Types of Leadership in the Post War World." The program will begin at 8:30.

As usual the formal opening will include the academic procession led by the President and the Board of Trustees, Randolph, and the introduction of the new faculty members to the student body.

The opening Tuesday afternoon included by Mrs. Brown, Board of Trustees, and the University of Cincinnati. Dr. Mitchell has taught at Mississippi College, Georgetown, and Brown University. From 1901-1928 he was president of the University of Vermont. From 1910-1914 he was president of the University of Delaware. From 1914-1930 he was president of the University of Delaware. During this period he accepted a position as assistant professor of philosophy in the University of Virginia and has been there ever since. Dr. Mitchell is member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Gamma Delta, and the American Historical Association. He has also been the director of the "South in the Building of a Nation."

Six New Members Join Faculty This Session

Six new members have been added to the Hollins faculty for the 1937-38 session.

The new members include:

Dorothy Doer, the new librarian; Dr. Frieda Bauer, in instructor in German; Mr. Robert Goodale, instructor in organ; Mr. Edward Johnn Hameston, instructor in English; Dr. Isabel E. Singleton, assistant professor of English; and Miss Louisa G. Lewis, instructor in English.

Sister Class President Greets New Students

Since the Juniors have waited long for this time when we should first meet them face to face, they will be thrilled to welcome you to Hollins. The novelty of this experience is not how, however, throughout her first three years, but that it is the realization that, as we, your "big sisters," are actually privileged with helping you, whenever help is necessary, to make your life here more enjoyable. We shall always be interested in you, and shall take great delight in the progress you will make while you are at Hollins.

Every Junior who shares with you the pride in your achievements and the tireless energy with which you face each new battle, you will find that you are at Hollins.

There is one important fact to be remembered—not only must we build for the future, but also we must build for the student body who is in itself a character of its own, it is for us to uphold its traditions and ideals, to add to the future generation.

We hope you have already felt our real friendliness toward you, for it is our wish that you may be a lasting bond between the classes of '41 and '39.

Student Life Introduces Hollins Campus Leaders

NANCY PEERY, President of student government, salutes the junior student body and salutes the student body. She has played on the Eton hockey team and held a position on the board of a social organization. Her hobby, and we well believe her, is sports. She plans to attend the Kappa Delta. This year, the graduate from Hollins this June. LUCY DAVIS, Vice-President of Student Government, introduces the standing figure in Hollins student government. She has spent her summer months. Beside their course work, sports, and cooperative and university exercises.

In athletics the Monogram Club is for students through all work, and all sports in athletics have passed the requirements. The Flying Club admires members after a certain test.

In dramatics a certain amount of time must be earned to gain membership in the honorary society, Ye Merrie Masquers. La Chiave is the honorary society for Greek club women, and is a member of its national organization. The honor society of A. D. A. is also easily joined, it is for those students whose final exercises.

Dr. Fräulein Iller was born in Austria and attended the elementary school and gymnasia at Vienna. She came to the United States in 1921. After graduation from high school she studied music at the Peabody Conservatory. In 1928 she entered Johns Hopkins and received her Ph. D. in 1933. Beside several years of teaching, Dr. Iller has done some outstanding work in translation with

Mr. Edward Judson Hume ton comes to Hollins as instructor in French and Spanish. He was graduated from Hamilton College in 1932 and received his M. A. from Princeton in 1934. From 1934-36 he served as master of Taft School. Mr. Hume ton has spent two summers in Paris studying and took private lessons while there from Lucien Faulet.

Dr. Isabel Rathborne will fill the position of assistant professor of English. She will be in charge of administration of English composition in the department. Dr. Rathborne graduated from St. Agatha School in New York City and from Barnard College. She received her M. A. and her Ph. D. from Columbia. She has also studied at Bedford College in the University of London where she specialized in the field of 16th and 17th century literature. Last year she held a fellowship in English and Comparative Literature at Columbia. Dr. Rathborne's major interest is in the Renaissance with emphasis on Sponsor.

Miss Louise G. Lewis, instructor in English, is a graduate of Barnard and received her M. A. at Columbia. She has taught at the University of Delaware and Wilson College. For the past two years Miss Lewis has been at Bryn Mawr working on her Ph. D.

Mr. Robert Goodale comes to Hollins as instructor in organ. He is a graduate of Yale University, receiving his B. A. in 1932 and his B. M. in 1937. While at Yale he majored in organ and composition. His thesis for his degree was an overture in the form of a sonata for a symphony orchestra and was played by the New Haven Symphony at the Commencement concert in May.

In addition to these faculty members Miss Lorna Dennison has come to campus as the new secretary to the president. Miss Barbara Rogan will serve as bookkeeper and cashier in the business office.

Tour of Campus

Freshmen are discovering that they need to get acquainted with the buildings here on Hollins campus. Seniors, however, say that even after four years of close association with them, there are still many things to learn about the buildings and their origins. Nevertheless, a short, though sketchy tour of the campus might be helpful to anyone who habitually gets lost.

The Charles L. Corcke Memorial Library, though it is often mistaken for the Administration building, is the most obvious and most frequented of the academic buildings. An attempt to describe it or his history could easily fill a volume. It's much nicer and lazier to take one of its books out on the back porch overlooking the garden and read in the sun. The class rooms in the basement are open at night for study, though everyone must leave when the library closes at 10.

To the left of the library is the Science Hall. Though it is devoted mainly to the laboratories of the natural and social sciences, other classes meet regularly in its class-rooms. The psychology labs are on the first floor, while the second is taken up by the biology department, and the third by the physics and chemistry departments.

Pressey Hall, which is the music and fine arts building, though often filled with the sound of many pianos, soprano, and violins, is quite peaceful early in the morning or late at night. It is the newest of the academic buildings and one of the most beautiful. The auditorium on the first floor, where invitation concerts and other lectures are often held, has been known to change its character during class meetings into that of Union Square or during faculty dances into the most festive of ball-rooms. People sometimes get lost in Pressey looking for the art studio. It's on the third floor by way of the stairway on the north side of the building. If one doesn't know where north is, it's the end nearest the barn.

Taylor gymnasium which faces Pressey across the back campus has all sorts of hidden recesses which are fairly well discovered during one's physical examination. The swimming pool can be approached from the north entrance to the gym from the locker room.

Most freshmen should know the Little Theater pretty well, after these psychological tests. But its auditorium looks quite different on a festive occasion, and the mites of dressing rooms behind the stage look even better when the cast of a play is preparing for the grand entrance.

New people on campus have quite a bit of difficulty in discovering who lives where among the faculty. Next to Carvin house up on the hill is Rathburn, where everyone is more than welcome. Then comes the Teachers Cottage and Mr. Corcke's house. Up the walk in back of the Corcke's house is Riverside house, the new faculty residence. The brick house next is Eastnor, Miss Matty Corcke's home. Next to Miss Matty in the little cottage is the Talmadge family, and up in the big white house on the hill live the McLimans. On the other side of faculty row in the double house live Miss Randolph, on the left, and the Janneys on the right. Next door is Mr. Turner's where the Turner family keeps open house to all Hollins students.

Though East, West, and Main Buildings are easy to know, the barn, out beyond the hockey field is a different matter. It is suggested that new comers pay a visit to discover it for themselves.
