German, Slav, Anglo-Saxon—Who Will Rule the World?—Will Be the Subject of His Address

German, Slav, Anglo-Saxon—Who Will Rule the World?—will be the subject of Mr. Hindus' lecture tonight. The first to appear on Hollins' program of outstanding events for the Centennial Year, Mr. Hindus will speak at eight o'clock in the Little Theatre.

Mr. Hindus has a record for accurate forecasts of events to come. Five years ago he predicted America's entry into World War II. In 1935, in the New Times, he said that Russia and Germany would eventually fight each other. Because of this record, because of his interpretation of European and world affairs and his predictions on its outcomes, Mr. Hindus' lecture bears special significance.

Born in Russia, he has visited his native land frequently in foreign countries. In England and in France, in Russia, when he speaks at convocations tonight. The first to appear on Hollins' program of outstanding events for the Centennial Year, Mr. Hindus will speak at eight o'clock in the Little Theatre.

Sophomores Plan Tea Dance on October 25 for Freshmen

Nancy Cooper, President of the Sophomore Class, has announced that on Saturday, October 25, from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m., the Sophomores will give a tea-dance for the Freshmen. The dance will be in the Gym and only the Freshmen will have dates, since the Sophomores will be stage group. The Social Committee, which will arrange the Freshmen dates, consists of the following girls: Mary Frances Smith, Evelyn Maraitis, Jean Afflick, Agnes Reid Jones, Elizabeth Chewning, and Marion Grey, Courtesy.

Caroly Peters
Plans Changes in Constitution

The Student Government Association, headed by Carolyn Peters, has begun work on plans for this, the Centennial Year. With the help of the student body, they hope to have added much to the progress of Student Government.

First on their list of improvements is the revision of the constitution. At present there are two constitutions, one for Student Government Association and the other for Joint Legislative Committee. Student Government also plans to work out a new system of petitioning. By doing so they hope to avoid the confusion of having several petitions of the same nature presented.

Finally, they hope to work out a definite plan for the order of elections next spring. If they succeed in this, it will save the whole student body from the unnecessary confusion that results during election time.

The other things which the Association hopes to improve are Quiet Hour and the Honor System. They realize, however, and they hope to make the student body conscious of the fact that this cannot be done by any act of Council, but only by the combined efforts of the entire school.

To assure smooth functioning in the Student Government Association, it is divided into three sections, the Executive Council, the Judicial Board, and the Joint Legislative Committee. Council is composed of the officers of Student Government, Student House Presidents, and Freshman and Sophomore representatives. Seven faculty members and twelve students will constitute the Judicial Board while the Judicial Board is in the hands of a chairman and members from all the classes.

Rust Heads Keller Committee; Group Sponsors Hike Saturday

This Committee is assisting the Athletic Board in giving a skating party. Later in the year the committee hopes to make plans for a bowling party and a bridge party which will probably come either on or near Thanksgiving. This Saturday, October 4, a gala winnRoast will be given in Happy Valley. The committee responsible for the day includes Libbey Hardwicke, Rinkky McCarty, Marion Martin, and Anne Kreuger. It will furnish the food at a cost of two pounds to each student. This party is the responsibility of the Sophomore class, so come all to Happy Valley on Saturday from 5 to 8.

Hollins Starts Red Cross Work

In answer to the long-need of students for a program of work to aid in National Defense, Mrs. Hubert Barlow, Red Cross Chapter in Roanoke, spoke before student body and members of the faculty on Thursday, October 2, at 7 P.M., in the Little Theatre. Having worked with the Red Cross Chapter in Roanoke for six years, Mrs. Wright was particularly well qualified to speak on the types of work which it would be possible to organize on this campus.

After briefly outlining the various types of work being done in Roanoke, Mrs. Wright then spoke of the demands still met by the Red Cross, and explained the ways in which a unit here at Hollins could be organized and partially or fully filled for both knitting and sewing, and plans are being made to organize groups from the Hollins community to meet these demands.

The plans have been posted on the bulletin board of Main Building, and every one interested in either sewing or knitting for the Red Cross is asked to sign her name. When the lists have been compiled, the committee will be appointed to arrange a schedule and supervise the work.

Comprehensive Plan for College's Expansion Calls for Development of South Campus

With the approach of the Centennial Year, the long-awaited comprehensive plan for the future physical development of Hollins has begun to crystallize. The plan, over which trustees, faculty and college officials have spent a great deal of time, will provide for a gradually expanding student body, and for the development of a south campus, around the lovely Beale Memorial Garden.

Turner Hall, the first objective in the program, and of particular interest for the development of a south campus, around the lovely Beale Memorial Garden.

The second building for which plans have already been drawn is the new library. When completed, Turner Hall will house 145 girls in two dormitory suites as well as a chapel and a studio. A new recreation center is another possible feature...another Kel- ler, perhaps, and additional social rooms will be provided. The riders are looking forward to a new home in the beehive championship, and other ideas are going to be developed.

The proposed fine arts building is to be constructed as an axis of East bordering the garden near the present entrance road. This structure would place all buildings most regularly visited by the public in one part of the campus, where, it is planned, there will be adequate parking space. The proposed fine arts building would house not only studios for the arts, but gallery space where the permanent art collections of Hollins as well as the frequent traveling exhibitions could be housed.

A companion structure for the arts building would be an administration hall located across the garden facing the entrance of Turner Hall.

The proposed new structure would be the campus church, a companion building for the Theatre and located across the little stream from it. Here the college can invite its friends in the community as well as students and their friends for religious services.

The plan of expansion also calls for redesigning the Chapel to accommodate the enlarged student body...the feeling be- ing that the simple religious setting offered by this old building furnishes the best place for evening services. An addition of a new wing to the kitchen to the west side away from the campus would also make it possible to utilize the present kitchen as an addition to the dining room.

The Beale Memorial Garden is to be extended toward the Theatre in one direction and toward the Tea House in the other, which of course, will entail considerable new planting. It is hoped that some of this planting can be under- taken this winter.

Mr. Barlow has indicated on the plan where future buildings may be placed should they become necessary in the years ahead. He suggests development of the north campus to the right of the present hockey fields. This develop- ment would necessitate some changes in the playing fields and the tennis courts.

CENTENNIAL IN RUSSIA

One of the more prominent notices on campus was the announcement of two new officers, Miss Ada K. L. P. and Miss John A. W. L., who were added to the faculty, four Assistant Professors: Miss Janet MacDonald, Mr. Maurice A. Maxwell, Mr. William E. Ingle, and Mrs. Beatrice W. White.

CENTENNIAL DEMANDS CLASS UNITY

This year Hollins is celebrating its hundredth year as an institution of learning. But do you feel that you are a part of that Centennial year? Do you feel that the Hollins of the past has been a part of your college life? Do you feel that the Hollins of the past is a part of the Hollins of the future?

There are two things that we can learn from the history of the community. First, the Hollins community is a part of the community. Second, the Hollins community is a part of the college. And these things are true.

Maneuvers Are Successful Here

Lest Saturday afternoon thirty-three Hollins Freshmen of the Class of '44 entered into battle with the Motor Corps. A belated baby September's rain soaking the yellow uniforms might make one think of the old adage that 'rain in September, frost in November', but the fortish Hollins Freshmen were not about to let the weather mar their plans. No, indeed, these were fighting Hollins Girls who meant to show the World that the Hollins Girls, unlike the Freshmen of other colleges, are not just for show. At St. John's, the motor parade was a success, but this parade was even more successful. It was only fitting that Hollins girls should have had a parade of their own, for, as Dr. Knudson pointed out, Hollins girls are not just for show.

The parade, led by the pageant of Freshmen, was a fine sight. The Freshmen, who had been excitedly discussing their parade for several weeks, were eager to show off their ideas and enthusiasm. The parade was held on the campus on October 3rd, and the Freshmen were dressed in yellow uniforms with red sashes. The parade was led by the Freshmen queen, who was followed by the Freshmen court and then the Freshmen in uniform.

The parade was a great success, and the Hollins Girls showed that they are not just for show. The parade was a wonderful sight, and the Freshmen were proud to show off their ideas and enthusiasm. The Students Discuss the Centennial Ball

For the past two weeks discussion has centered around the question: "Shall the Centennial Ball be a costume affair?" Such questions as, "Shall both girls and dates appear in costume?" and "Should costumes be limited to a certain period?" have arisen. Views vary among the students.

NANCY WASHINGTON, '44: "I think a Fancy Dress Ball for the Centennial celebration would be extremely appropriate. Although the boys might protest outwardly against wearing costumes, I think they really would enjoy it; and the Ball would be more effective with every one in costume. As for the types of costumes, it seems to me that costumes representative of the past hundreds of years would be most fitting, rather than limiting them to a particular period.

ANN BRYAN, '45: "I think that fancy dress would add a lot to the atmosphere which we are trying to create for the Centennial Ball, and it would make it much more fun. However, I don't think we should have fancy dress unless the boys are willing to cooperate. If they are, then the costumes should all be of the same period, otherwise there will be only a motley effect as a result."

BETTY SPRYKE, '43: "I definitely think that we should have a Costume Ball. I do not think, however, that boys should be made to wear costumes since many of them will come from far away, but I do feel that boys should wear tuxedos or tails. I think that the costumes should be limited to one period because this would make it somewhat uniform."

CAROLINE GALE, '42: "The Costume Ball is a real idea as far as the girls are concerned, but if boys had to wear costumes they wouldn't be so likely to come. Since a girl's aim at any dance is to look as pretty as possible, the girls should stick to dresses of the Civil War period and if not authentic dresses, at least new ones styled along the same lines, with full skirts and made of soft, fluffy material."

VAL KUNTZ, '43: "I've been all in favor of having a ball since plans for the Centennial celebration were announced to the student body. By all means, let's keep the costumes restricted to one definite period and let's have one in every costume. That means that too many of the girls think their dates would object to fancy dress, let's have them wear formal dress uniforms and a Civil War period coat. Let's have the girls wearing one type of costume and the boys another."

GRAHAM GWATHMEY, '45: "I certainly do think we ought to take advantage of our luck in being at Hollins during the 100th year by having the ball a fancy dress one. If we choose dress from a certain period the effect would be better. However, I do not think the boys should be asked to wear costumes as they are so unreliable and are apt to either refuse the invitation or appear in a leopard suit."

BETTY LEE SAMS, '43: "Let's have a Costume Ball by all means but, please, don't make the poor boys wear costumes. Think of them and think of the trouble we would have choosing dress from a certain period the effect would be better. However, I do not think the boys should be asked to wear costumes as they are so unreliable and are apt to either refuse the invitation or appear in a leopard suit."

SAYS PAUL DOUGLAS, well-known radio announcer:

Somebody whistles a few bars of a catchy tune. Others pick it up.

Soon the whole country's whistling it. It's a hit.

Somebody lights up a cigarette. Likes it. Passes the word along.

Soon the whole country's smoking it. It's a hit. IT'S CHESTERFIELD.

The big thing that's pushing Chesterfield ahead is the approval of smokers like yourself. Chesterfields are definitely Milder, Cooler-Smoking and Better-Tasting. They're made of the world's best cigarette tobaccos Blended just right to give you more smoking pleasure.

But even these facts wouldn't count If smokers didn't just naturally like them. Once a smoker finds out from Chesterfield What real smoking pleasure is, nothing else will do. Yes, fellow smokers, IT'S YOUR APPROVAL THAT'S PUSHING CHESTERFIELD AHEAD.

Free Speech

DEAR EDITOR:

Today, on this campus, there are many students who believe that Hollins should do something to help the nation at a time when she is facing the severest of crises. This conviction that we should help is not a new one, for the same sentiment was expressed many times last year. But last we did nothing. Consequently, many of us cannot fail to raise the question, "Will this year be as devoid of cooperative effort as last year?"

Each of us hates to taste defeat, to feel that we have not faced an issue with our best efforts, but too many of us are uncertain as to what to do. The answer is simple—let us rise above that lurking question by actually working instead of dreaming. None can deny that the answer lies in the willingness of each individual on this campus to do her share toward helping the newly organised Red Cross unit become a strong and living factor on the campus. Let's all meet the demand which the nation is now asking of each and every person in this country. Your help and cooperation are needed! Will you answer this demand?

A SENIOR

DEAR EDITOR:

To the next gal of Hollins and the definitely advantageous change of policy two years ago, I haven't had the one dreaded sensation that usually goes along with the first few weeks of every one's college career, that empty feeling of homesickness. If I had gone through the hazing and heckling of freshman "hall week," I'm sure that I would have packed my bags and headed for "Home, Sweet Home" days ago.

Why add insult to injury? Look at the cadets at V. P. I. and V. M. I. They spend half of their time degrading some upperclassman who has made them appear small and insignificant in the eyes of the whole school or their classmates. We, as freshmen, are thankful for the removal of that policy from Hollins. Thanks again for making us feel at home.

Sincerely yours,

JEAN TALBOT, '45

DEAR EDITOR:

There seems to be much discussion on the campus about the rule that no Hollins girls may go into Roanoke on Sunday nights unless they have dates. We all realize that there have been many revisions in the rules governing the social activities, and we appreciate our added privileges. However, it seems to me that there are still some very queer things in the handbook.

I realize that there may be an objection to Sunday night movies due to the fact that Sunday is, after all, the Lord's day and should be observed as such. Still, a Hollins girl may go to Sunday night movies if she has a date, so it is obvious that the moral reason could not be the one behind this rule. Perhaps it seems queer to the Roanoke people to see groups of girls wandering around the town unescorted after dark, but it surely must be far worse for girls to be in town on Saturday nights without dates. On Saturday nights the streets of Roanoke are thronged with people of all types who have come in from the surrounding countryside, whereas on Sunday the city looks almost like it does on a week night. Just what is the reason that we cannot go to Roanoke on Sunday night for a movie? This rule seems so out of place—inconsistent with the other rules—and it is hard for many of us not to be annoyed by it especially when we do not understand why it is in the handbook at all.

Skiing and snowboarding offer relief to Raggtime and Jivetime

Remember, girls, opportunity knocks but once—and, believe me, it is knocking now! The whole point of this is that the Athletic Association is coming to the rescue of all you gals, who have found that your "figgers" just can't overcome the hot rolls and other Southern goodies or that despite the fifty million steps you climb a day you aren't getting enough exercise by giving a skating party on the night of the 11th. To the gentle strains of the "Blue Danube" and the hot boogie woogie of Benny Goodman (all recordings, "scratchly") you can skate to your heart's content and to the rhythm of the music for two solid hours. Think of it—for only seventy-five cents you get (1) transportation to and from the rink, (2) super-super skating for two hours, and (3) the music of all the famous masters plus that of the jive kings... now what more could one ask? So, for much fun, exercise and excitement (spills, you know), buy a little ticket and meet all your friends for a big party at the skating rink on the eleventh. By the way, Freshmen, this is one time that you can overcome the "five-week-stay on campus" ruling.
