Dear Mildred Persinger,

A kind friend in New York has sent me issues No. 9 and 10 of your International Women's Tribune Centre Newsletter, which greatly impressed me. Is it possible to send me at least No. 8, which is Part 1 of "Women and Appropriate Technology" and to put me directly on your mailing list ?

In return, you may be interested in the attached report on a meeting held in Geneva 28 September between the JUNIC Development Education Working Group and a number of NGOs on the subject "Women in Development", and in a note concerning UNICEF's involvement in development education. On pages 8 and 9 of this is a list of our dev/ed materials, which include a kit on village technology, which you may wish to obtain from my colleague Nico van Oudenhoven, UNICEF Development Education Officer in New York. Nico can also provide you with a copy of a joint kit we produced with the World Scout Bureau on Appropriate Technology, and with two photo-exhibit sets we have produced : Women at Work in Eastern Africa, and Arab Women at Work. You may wish to mention these in your Newsletter - all of our materials are available in English and French, and occasionally in other languages too, such as German, Spanish, and Arabic.

Good stuff for ms etc about conference + program

UNICEF is "gearing up" for the Copenhagen Conference with plans to produce photo stories, slide sets, exhibits and other specially tailored materials, about which Jim Breetveld, Chief of our Photo and Exhibit Service at New York Headquarters, will be glad to give you details. UNICEF also has a global "Knowledge Network on Women and Development", and Sheila Barry at UNICEF HQ could give you further information about that.

With my best wishes for the Newsletter and for IWTC's preparations for the Copenhagen Conference.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Vickers
