Hollins Horizon

"wear many different shoes"

The Sylvia B. Mays chapter of Pinnacle, a national honor society which recognizes and supports the leadership and scholastic achievements of non-traditional students, was proud to induct 15 new members this year. Horizon students were also admitted to Alpha Psi Omega, Lambda Pi Eta, Phi Sigma Tau and Sigma Tau Delta as well as winning seven scholarships and awards at Honors Convocation.

Horizon women take pride in their campus involvement and their scholastic achievement and believe that the challenges of returning to college make their contributions and successes even richer. This year they have participated in the theatrical productions A Little Mermaid and Nine, traveled abroad to London and Ireland, participated in Grapheon, S.H.A.R.E., L.E.A.P., H.O.P. and the Hollins' Day of Service. Significant artistic achievements this semester include the film, The Way To A Man's Heart, the play I've Got a Story to Tell, and visual art on display at the O. Winston Link Museum and in the senior thesis show at the Eleanor D. Wilson Museum, as well as musical performances.
